

GERMAN PLAN A WESTWARD SWEEP AFTER TAKING WARSAW

FALL OF WARSAW IS NEAR; KAISER TO LEAD TROOPS IN; RUSSIANS TRY TO SAVE ARMY

Allies Now Admit Further Resistance to Overwhelming Force Would Be Useless.

MAY LOSE RAILROAD.

London Has Begun to Fear That Czar's Army Is Itself in Peril.

LONDON, July 30.—Warsaw, the third city of Russia in size and the goal for which the German armies in the east have been striving since October, is about to fall. Germans in overwhelming numbers are at the gates of the Polish capital and despatches both from the city itself and from Petrograd say that further resistance would be unwise.

Discounted not only through France and Great Britain, but in Russia itself, the fall of the city is expected hourly and the problem now is to move the Russian army intact, threatened as they are south by the Austro-Germans and more seriously from the north, where the German forces which have swept through Poland are aiming at the railway from Warsaw to Petrograd. This latter menace, the British press admits, is imminent and the hope in the allied countries now is not for the safety of Warsaw, but for the continued cohesion of the Russian army.

The Warsaw Post Office already has been shifted to some point to the eastward, the populace has been warned to remain calm. Presumably for days Russian troops have been stripping the city of everything of military value.

Banks are sending their gold to Petrograd. Many prominent citizens with their families have left the city. The work of removing the heavy guns from the great fortress of Novo Georgievsk, which guards Warsaw's northwestern flank, is being pushed. Preparations are being made to blow up the munitions that cannot be used as the last body of Russian troops retreats.

German aviators are hovering over the city. According to German advice, plans have been completed for the triumphant entry of the German Emperor, accompanied by his consort.

With Warsaw captured, whether or not it proves a conquest of lasting strategic advantage, a great wave of enthusiasm will sweep over Germany and Austria-Hungary, and it is predicted here that the armies of the central powers will then seek to force a period of truce warfare in the east, meanwhile throwing a great weight of men and guns to the west with the idea of resuming the battering toward Calais and perhaps toward Paris.

In the west just now there has been little worthy of note to break the monotony of mining and bombing from the North Sea to the Swiss frontier.

BOMB AT ROEBLING PLANT THAT MAKES WAR SUPPLIES

Missile Like Two-Foot Cartridge Is Found Under Window of Foreman's House.

BRENTON, N. J., July 30.—The destruction by fire of part of the extensive plant of the John A. Roebling Wire Company, where chain cables are said to be made for the warring nations, which was thought to have been caused by foreign spies, was recalled vividly today. A bomb was found under a bay window in the yard of the home of August F. Schultze, a foreman in the employ of the Roebling company, who resides at No. 418 Commonwealth Avenue.

The missile measures two feet in length, is several inches in diameter and shaped like a giant cartridge. Matches are attached to it by black strings and enveloped in a soft material that resembles sulphur.

The police have the bomb, and it will be analyzed by Albert Probst, the city chemist, who inspected the bombs found in St. Joachim's Church and at the gates of the Roebling plant New Year's Day.

There were artillery and rifle duels all day Wednesday.

WHAT IS A PERFECT HUSBAND?

Well, well, this sounds simple, doesn't it? "One who gives his wife all his confidence and half his money." That's a woman's view, of course. But just read what the New York girl's criterion is said to be, even if you don't agree with it. Is her ideal a "flippant, flirtatious social gangster?"

There Seems to Be No Lack of Definite Ideas Regarding the Necessary Qualifications of a "Perfect Husband" From Evening World Readers of Both Sexes.

By Marguerite Mooers Marshall.

What is a perfect husband? In substance, this is the definition of him given by Mrs. Martha Stevens of No. 637 Elmore Place, Brooklyn, who has advertised for the man she wants:

"The man I choose as a husband must not be a clubman, a fly-by-night. He must be a teetotaler. He must think his home is the best place on earth and be willing to stay in it. He must be kind and affectionate. He must not try to be boss. He must be chivalrous. He must be in early middle life. He must have the appearance and manners of a gentleman. I want a man who will be company for me and who will have a little money besides his salary. I think an ideal type is the successful American business man who has not been too busy, however, to lose all interest in music, books, the theatre and other forms of art."

Is that the sort of man you want to marry? What things must a man do or be in order to qualify, in your eyes, as a perfect husband? Do men readers of The Evening World accept Mrs. Stevens's word-picture of the perfect husband as an ideal toward which to strive? Every woman who thinks she knows a perfect husband, or who has set up a standard of one in her own mind, is invited to send me a letter about him to be printed in The Evening World. Every man who believes that he has the correct notion of an Al husband is asked to write a description of him for the women who will read this discussion. I shall be much interested to see how closely the views of the men and women agree.

THE WAIL OF THE MAN WHO FEARS BACHELORHOOD.

I have already received one letter from a young man who criticizes bitterly the ideal of a husband cherished by the New York girl. From his description of himself, he seems to resemble the "perfect husband" of Mrs. Stevens's imagination. But he says he has found that he cannot by any means qualify as the sort of "perfect husband" wanted by the girls and women of this city.

Here is his letter: Dear Madam: A great deal has been said about the woes of the eligible New York maiden on her path toward matrimony. Allow a member of the poor, down-trodden species of man-bachelors to lift his voice humbly in sorrow and complaint about the "antiquating and coquetizing" New York maiden. I claim to represent the young man between thirty and thirty-two who has strenuously worked himself up on the ladder of ambition and industry until he stands strong and firm; the young man who in his hard career had no time to waste for frivolities, for the art of modern jockeying called courting, flirting, &c. He has, however, achieved business success and he can splendidly support a wife and family. He is the great work done—ambitious to meet his mate, a good, clever, charming girl—to marry and live in happiness. He has the earnestness, the character and heart indispensable to appreciate, to honor and to venerate his life partner and to make a perfect husband.

Now comes the point. The spilt New York maiden of innumerable good times and frivolous associations and tendencies frowns upon the sultor thus described. Although manly and prosperous, he lacks "the qualities" necessary to win her.

The New York girl's idea of a "perfect husband" is a smirking, shallow, maneuvered, tongue-mad, social gangster. An honest, intelligent and cultured man who lacks the brilliant flippancy, affected bearing and blasé behavior of this tame puppy is out-classed every time. It's the flirtatious, silk-socked boy with the ready-made tongue-music of sparkling nonsense over whom the girls are just crazy. He has the pick of them all when he wants to get married, and according to the woman's vote he's the perfect husband.

There is no doubt about the fate of the frank author who is "but" a self-made man without the shallow manners required by New York courtship. He will fall promptly and continually. Certainly he gets sorely discouraged and joins the legion of the bachelors-for-life, with bitterness against the fair sex.

Evening World Readers Answer Widow's Query

Well, well, this sounds simple, doesn't it? "One who gives his wife all his confidence and half his money." That's a woman's view, of course. But just read what the New York girl's criterion is said to be, even if you don't agree with it. Is her ideal a "flippant, flirtatious social gangster?"

Wilson Prisoner of 'Capitalists,' Says Vorwaerts

North German Gazette Also Attack President as Friend of British.

BERLIN (via wireless to Sayville), July 30.—Charges against President Wilson are made in the Socialist newspaper Vorwaerts.

"Wilson's position is rather unpleasant," the editorial asserts. "He is already a prisoner in the hands of the capitalistic interests which want to prolong the war because they are doing an excellent business. If Wilson tried to regain his independence their support would be lost—and this support is indispensable for his renomination and re-election. If he continues to serve as their instrument he estranges his party, and particularly the old Democratic element, whose support elected him three years ago."

The North German Gazette also criticizes President Wilson. It prints extracts from London Times articles how America extended international laws during the Civil War, and how these extensions are now the basis for the British arguments justifying England's blockade. Particular attention is called to an extract from the Times stating that Americans at that time did not hesitate to extend international law on account of changed conditions, and would doubtless allow England the same liberty now.

The North German Gazette, which is an official newspaper, "cordially endorses this standpoint," and adds: "Germany has hitherto tried by failed to impress Wilson with the necessity of extending international law according to the changed conditions of naval warfare, but perhaps valuable British support is of greater effect. Certainly Germany is entitled to equal freedom of action that America insisted upon during the Civil War."

WOMAN AND 2 CHILDREN MISSING FROM CONEY

Not Noticed Other Room Was Hired at Bath House—May Have Been Drowned.

Detectives are trying to locate a woman who hired a room and bathing suit at the Eureka Bath House at West Twenty-fifth Street, Coney Island, yesterday afternoon, left her clothing and that of two baby boys in the room, and has not been seen since. There was no laundry mark or other means of identification on anything in the room and the woman checked no valuables. The surf was quite heavy at the island yesterday and it is feared that the mother and her two little boys may have been drowned. The Harbor Squad has been notified and is on the lookout for the bodies.

The woman left in the room a brown leather travelling bag, a tan colored crash suit, white underwear and stockings, and black buttoned shoes with tan cloth uppers. A pocketbook in the bag contained sixteen cents. The children's suits were of linen and showed the wearers to be about four and six years old. There was a pair of stockings apiece for the children and three pairs of children's shoes, one pair much worn, as if used only when the child was playing. The attendants do not remember any children accompanying the woman and it is thought that she undressed them on the beach and then brought their clothing into the bathhouse with her.

Yonkers Carpet Company Boosts Wages 10 Per Cent.

When the 7,000 men and women employees of the Alexander Smith & Sons Carpet Company in Yonkers received their pay envelopes yesterday they found in them a slip granting an increase in pay of 10 per cent. This will increase the payroll of the concern about $8,000 weekly. The increase brings the wage schedule up to that received by the employees two years ago, before business conditions caused a reduction.

A SINCERE INVESTIGATION.

(From the Washington Star.)
"You have been away from home some time."
"Yes; travelling in the interests of science. I have been engaged in some research among the rural population."
"Some question of agriculture?"
"No. Philology. I have been reading dialect stories and I have been travelling all through the rural districts trying to locate a farmer who really said 'By back.'"

ALL NIGHT FIGHTS NEAR SOUCHEZ AND THE "LABYRINTH"

Hand Grenades and Bombs Used in Battles From Trench to Trench.

JOFFRE STILL DELAYS.

Prefers a Waiting Game and Winter Campaign to Risk of Battle Now.

PARIS, July 30.—The French War Office this afternoon gave out the following statement:

"In the Artois District, near Souchez, and at 'the Labyrinth,' there was all last night fighting from trench to trench with hand grenades and bombs. Between the Oise and the Aisne, on the Plateau of Quenoveres, there was continued activity yesterday with artillery and bomb throwers. Between Boursouilles and Vauquois, and in the Forest of Malancourt, the explosion of mines by the enemy did no damage."

"In the Forest of La Pretre a German movement of attack at La Croix-des-Carmes was easily repulsed."

"A German aviator yesterday threw down on the town of Nancy a total of four bombs, but no casualties or damage resulted."

"In the Vosges, at Barrenkopf, the fighting continued with great fury until midnight. A fresh German counterattack was repulsed. A curtain of fire maintained by our troops inflicted heavy losses on the enemy."

France is fully prepared for a decisive battle on the ground that Germany must give way under long drawn out pressure, and by such tactics he can save France thousands of men. He is said to be an exponent of defeating Germany by attrition, no matter how long it takes, France and her allies being in a better position to play a waiting game than the central European powers. Unless Germany strikes a decisive blow this summer, which captured prisoners say she will endeavor to do, in three months she will be on the toghogran, according not only to French authorities, but to the captured Germans of the Heideberg professor type.

French mills are busy turning out uniforms and other winter equipment. French public opinion is beginning to accustom itself to the idea of another winter in the trenches and some eighteen months more of war.

Although Gen. Joffre is criticised not infrequently for not hurrying matters, some of his leading generals are known to stand with him on the policy of conserving the army so as to have a large, well-conditioned force when the other side is thinned out and groggy.

ARMORED MOTORBOATS FOR COAST DEFENSE

Commodore Blackton Will Commission Craft to Aid Preparedness Crusade.

Commodore J. Stuart Blackton of the Atlantic Yacht Club has arranged to have several fast motor boats covered with armor so that they may be used for coast defense in connection with the peace-through-preparedness movement.

It is planned to have the work started immediately after the club's motor boat races the second week in August. The boats will be placed in dry docks and armored. Hudson Maxim is acting in conjunction with Commodore Blackton.

"The plan is one of the most feasible means of rapidly ending our present state of unpreparedness," said Commodore Blackton. "The boats can be put in commission without any great delay, and they are so speedy they can outrun torpedoes. I am taking this action for no other purpose than assisting my country."

BOGUS PASSPORTS ARE A DANGER TO REAL AMERICANS

State Department Attempting to Put a Stop to Forgery of Such Documents.

WASHINGTON, July 30.—Forgery of American passports are imperiling all real Americans in allied territory, it was admitted today by officials in close touch with conditions in belligerent European countries.

It was for this reason, it was stated, that the State Department considered itself justified in taking the matter up with the Berlin Foreign Office. If alleged confessions by German spies, arrested by the allies, are to be accepted as true, German officials have been involved in bogus passport manufacturing. It was admitted, however, that its source makes such testimony doubtful.

To-day or Saturday Ambassador Gerard was expected to present to the German Government the State Department's representations questioning the legality of the Leelanaw's destruction even though laden with contraband.

FRENCH SUBMARINES RAID GERMAN SHIPS

Cause Great Damage in the Harbor of Zeebrugge, Says London Despatch.

LONDON, July 30.—Successful retaliatory submarine warfare by the French against the Germans is reported in a despatch from the Copenhagen Politiken, which says great damage has been done in the harbor of Zeebrugge, held by the Germans, by the French underwater craft.

The French boats, according to this report, have destroyed German vessels in the harbor, in some cases with long of life.

CANAL BOND SWINDLE IS PROBABLY SMALL

Stephen Baker, President of the Bank of the Manhattan Company, said yesterday that no duplicate coupons of the State Canal bonds owned by John D. Rockefeller and others have been sent in for redemption in the last few days.

Six fraudulent coupons for July interest were sent in, as against twelve last January.

The work of checking up coupons cashed during the last year is not yet completed. Mr. Baker said yesterday he believes the swindle involves only a few hundred dollars.

State Comptroller Travis yesterday started Deputy Boardman for St. Louis and Chicago, where Post Office inspectors have several men under arrest charged with having put out the bogus coupons.
